

The general purpose of ELT Concourse is to provide a free resource for anyone worldwide working in the field of English Language Teaching and for students needing English language skills for whatever purpose.

It is for the use of and of interest to the following groups of people:

- English Language Teachers whether in EFL, EAP, ESOL or any other branch of the profession
- Students needing English language skills for whatever purpose
- Teachers entering the profession or newly trained
- Experienced teachers advancing their careers by taking higher qualifications
- Teacher trainers at whatever level of qualification

Using the materials on ELT Concourse

This site carries no advertising and permits no promotional activity by its contributors.

All materials on the website are covered by a Creative Commons license.

Users are free to share, copy and amend any of the materials but under certain conditions:

Attribution: If the author is identifiable, you must attribute the work to that author and to this site. If the author is not identifiable, you must attribute the materials to this site. In neither case may you do so in a way that suggests that the author(s) or this site endorse you or your use of the work.

Non-commercial: You may not use any material for commercial purposes although the materials may be used with fee-paying students.

Share Alike: If you alter, transform, or build upon this work, you may distribute the resulting work only under the same or similar license to this one.

For full details of the terms of the licence, both in legal terms and in language readily understood by normal people, please click on this link:

Submitting material to ELT Concourse

Any materials which will be of use or interest to people working and/or studying in the field of English Language Teaching will be considered.

If you wish to submit materials, articles, presentations or any other form of work to this site for consideration for publication, please note these general points:

By submitting material for publication, you are stating that:

1. You are the copyright holder of the materials and you understand that any copyright infringement will be your sole responsibility. Alternatively, you are confirming that all or part of the material is already in the public domain and there are no copyright issues.
2. You will not submit material which in any way infringes or damages the privacy, rights or reputation of any other individual or institution.
3. You understand the terms of the Creative Commons licence which will cover the material you submit.
4. You understand that your contribution will be anonymous unless you ask that your name is appended to the work. Additionally, you may request that any or all of the following are appended:
 - a. a contact email or other address
 - b. the name of any institution for whom you work
 - c. a brief description of you, e.g., 'Teacher', 'Director of Studies', 'Materials writer' etc.
5. You will use links and references purely for your readers' information and interest and not use such references for any commercial or promotional purposes.
6. You understand that material will only be published at the discretion of the editor(s) and may be withdrawn at any time without notice.