

ELTConcourse.com is a free resource for English language learners, teachers and trainers.

All materials on the site are covered by an open-use Creative Commons Licence, which means you are free to use them under some simple conditions. All materials and courses are completely free of charge.

The site has no commercial function and does not feature advertisements or promotional materials. It is unaffiliated and independent and you don't have to sign up.

No personal data about visitors are collected.

The site contains

- Resources for initial and in-service training for self-study or incorporation into a training programme covering language and skills analysis, methodology and the background to ELT
- Training to Train: a free conversion course in moving from language teaching to language teacher training
- A section for teacher trainers with downloadable worksheets
- A section devoted to helping people pass Cambridge Delta with a free Module One training course
- Explicit advice and guides for all parts of Delta Module Two
- A self-study course for Delta Module Three
- A section devoted to helping people pass CELTA or other initial training courses
- A free TKT course for Modules 1, 2 and 3
- A language analysis course for teachers
- A simple grammar for learners
- A teacher development section for personal professional development
- Resources for learners of English for self-study or incorporation into a teaching programme
- Teaching materials
- Articles of interest to people in the profession